Hi Alanna,

I hope that your new year is off to a good start! I'm emailing to provide more information about the environmental studies orientation class that you will be coming to speak to on February 9th.

This is a one unit course in which students who are planning to major in environmental studies or environmental science learn about the programs at PCC and PSU, and become familiar with a variety of environmental organizations and career options. I have several guest speakers come speak about their organizations, their particular job, and the educational and career pathway that has led them to their current position. The class is from 1 - 1:50 pm so I recommend preparing for a 40 minute talk (we have a computer and projector if you'd like to use a presentation or access website during your talk) and allow 10 minutes for questions.

I've attached the syllabus and the in-class assignment students will be asked to complete for your presentation. If you'd like to talk more over the phone, please give me a call on my cell phone at (b) (6). I will be sending you a parking pass as the date approaches, along with directions to the classroom.

Thank you so much for taking the time to come talk with my students. I'm excited to hear the perspective from an EPA staff-person working on local issues.

Val
